

Dell Adamo XPS

Thursday, 05 November 2009

Dell certainly knows how to build funny laptops, and their latest Adamo XPS certainly is an odd ball. Of course, it seems that the latest Dell Adamo XPS is already shipping from Dell, and it will come with the following hardware configurations:

LED-backlit 13.4-inch display with 720p

1.4GHz Intel Core 2 Duo ultra-low voltage processor

4GB of DDR3 RAM

GS45 integrated graphics – this graphics is pretty lousy, don’t you think so?

128GB thin-micro SSD

64-bit Windows 7 Home Premium

Well it’s going to be expensive to purchase the latest Adamo XPS as Dell will be retailing this particular laptop for a whopping $1,799.

Interested?